

Welcome to eWatering Update

eWatering Update is an easy, nearly effortless way for people like you to save huge amounts of water, protect the environment, and lower your water bill. Using sophisticated weather stations here in Long Beach and leveraging the power of the internet, we send periodic, easy-to-use irrigation recommendations to you at virtually no cost.

- Subscribing or unsubscribing...Click here
- Getting started -- select a start up method:
  - For the quick and easy method ...Click here
  - For the method that maximizes water savings and environmental benefits ...Click here
- Learning how eWatering Update helps you save water ...Click here
- Getting the most out of your irrigation controller...Click here
- Exploring the user's guide to eWatering Update...Click here
  - Frequently asked questions
  - Understanding your irrigation controller
  - Minimizing runoff
- To return to the Long Beach Water Department's conservation homepage...Click here

eWatering Update is a water conservation project of the Long Beach Water Department, made possible through a generous contribution from the Bureau of Reclamation, a federal agency that manages water and related resources throughout the West.